HALF MILLION MEN TO FIGHT AT MUKDEN

The Battle Will be One of the Greatest in History.

The Forces Are About Equally Divided—General Stoessel Refuses to Surrender Port Arthur.

OTHER LATE WAR NEWS TODAY

Rome, Sept. 29.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Italia Militare reports that in the impending battle of Mukden Gen. Kuropatkin will have a force equal if not superior to the enemy.
The Russian force, he says, will amount to two hundred and fifty thousand men,
and eight hundred guns. The Japanese force is estimated at the same number,
with a thousand guns.

BAD FOR PORT ARTHUR.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—Despondency regarding the situation at Port Arthur is becoming more pronounced daily.
The grounds for this feeling of pessimism was added to in the last few days by the entire absence of news from Gen.
Stoessel. It is understood in official quarters that the Japanese reinforcements are continually arriving outside the besieged city and relieving the jaded comrades. The Russians, however, have no rest.

NEW CONSCRIPTION LAW.

Tokio, Sept. 29.—An emergency order under the conscription law was gas-setted this morning. The new order extends the period of service of second-class reservists from five to ten years,
and abolishes the distinction between conscription of the first and second class.

COSSACKS' BRILLIANT FLANK.

Mukden, Sept. 29.—The march of Gen.
Rennenkampf's Cossacks around the Japanese right flank which was mentioned in the dispatches on Sept. 26, was a remarkable performance. Accompanied by a battery of artillery the Cossacks covered eighty miles in 52 hours. They struck the enemy north of Bent-saipute on Sept. 19, and thence continued south, circling the Japanese right flank and coming unexpectedly on the Japanese line of communications near Renshui, on the bank of Taitse river,
Sept. 22, inflicting considerable damage.
The Japanese were thrown into great confusion but the Cossacks retired with a loss of only two killed.

JAPS SUFFER FROM DYSENTERY.

Mukden, Sept. 29.—Dr. Matievich who was captured by the Japanese at Liao Yang, says the Japanese are suffering severely from dysentery and that they begged his assistance in combating the disease. The Japanese officers of staff are excellent linguists and many of them speak English and German as well as some Russian.

The Japanese army is living almost entirely on preserved foods, but it is comfortably equipped, many of the officers having rocking chairs among their baggage.

The principal Japanese fear is for forage for horses, for during the winter
the country is swept clean for several miles on each side of the railroad and the inhabitants are reluctant to sell.

JAPANESE ADVANCES.

London, Sept. 29.—The News has a dispatch from St. Petersburg stating that telegrams have been received there from the front indicating that the Japanese are making advance along the entire Russian front. The Chinese in the neighborhood are flocking to Mukden.

GEN. STOESEL REFUSED.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—Gen. Stoessel has finally refused to yield Port Arthur, as all expected he would. A friend of his said:

"Even if instructions were sent to him
to capitulate he would surely follow the example of Nelson, who promptly turned blind eyes on the side of the signal telling him to cease fighting."

RUSSIANS EVACUATED.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—A report reached here from Mukden to the effect that the Japanese have assumed the offensive, and captured Da Pass. This is not actually confirmed, but the staff thinks it likely correct. The Russians
it is added, have evacuated the Pass without serious resistance.

KING OF SAXONY IS SLOWLY DYING

Sacrament Was Administered
Yesterday to Him.

The Battleship Connecticut Launched
—Two Hangings in Philadelphia
This Morning.

DROUTH IN KANSAS BROKEN

Berlin, Sept. 29.—The condition of the king of Saxony is believed to be hopeless. After an acute crisis in his condition Wednesday the last sacrament was administered.

WATER FAMINE AVOIDED.

Kansas City, Sept. 29.—The heat spell
has been broken and a threatened water famine is avoided by a rainfall this morning.

TWO HANGED TODAY.

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—James Webb
and Samuel Archer, negroes, were hanged
here this morning. Webb murdered his wife and mother-in-law, and Archer killed a policeman who arrested him for burglary.

ALL PLEAD NOT GUILTY.

Buffalo, Sept. 29.—Seven of the present and former members of the board of aldermen indicted on charges of accepting bribes for awarding municipal contracts were arraigned today and pleaded not guilty, being released on bond.

CONNECTICUT LAUNCHED.

Brooklyn Navy Yard, Sept. 29.—Amid
the cheers of thousands and the booming
of cannon, the battleship Connecticut
designed to be the best, most impressive fighting machine ever afloat on the world's seas, was successfully launched
this morning.

LADY CURZON BETTER.

London, Sept. 29.—A bulletin regarding Lady Curzon's health was issued this morning and states that the patient had a fair night, and is maintaining the improvement noted yesterday.

NO IMPROVEMENT.

Worcester, Sept. 29.—Senator Hoar is no better. He failed through the night, and may live through the day, and he may not.

CZAR'S PICTURE

AND OTHER FEATURES OF RUS- SIAN EXHIBIT AT WORLD'S FAIR MUTILATED.

St. Louis, September 29.—When the Russian exhibit in the varied industries building at the World's Fair was opened yesterday it was discovered that several valuable oil paintings of Emperor Nicholas had been torn from the wall and mutilated by some one.

Another portrait of the czar, handsome and valuable panel done in colored silk, had been torn from its support and subjected to the greatest indignity. Oil paintings were torn,
and there were marks showing that the features of the czar had been stamped on.

An investigation has been ordered.

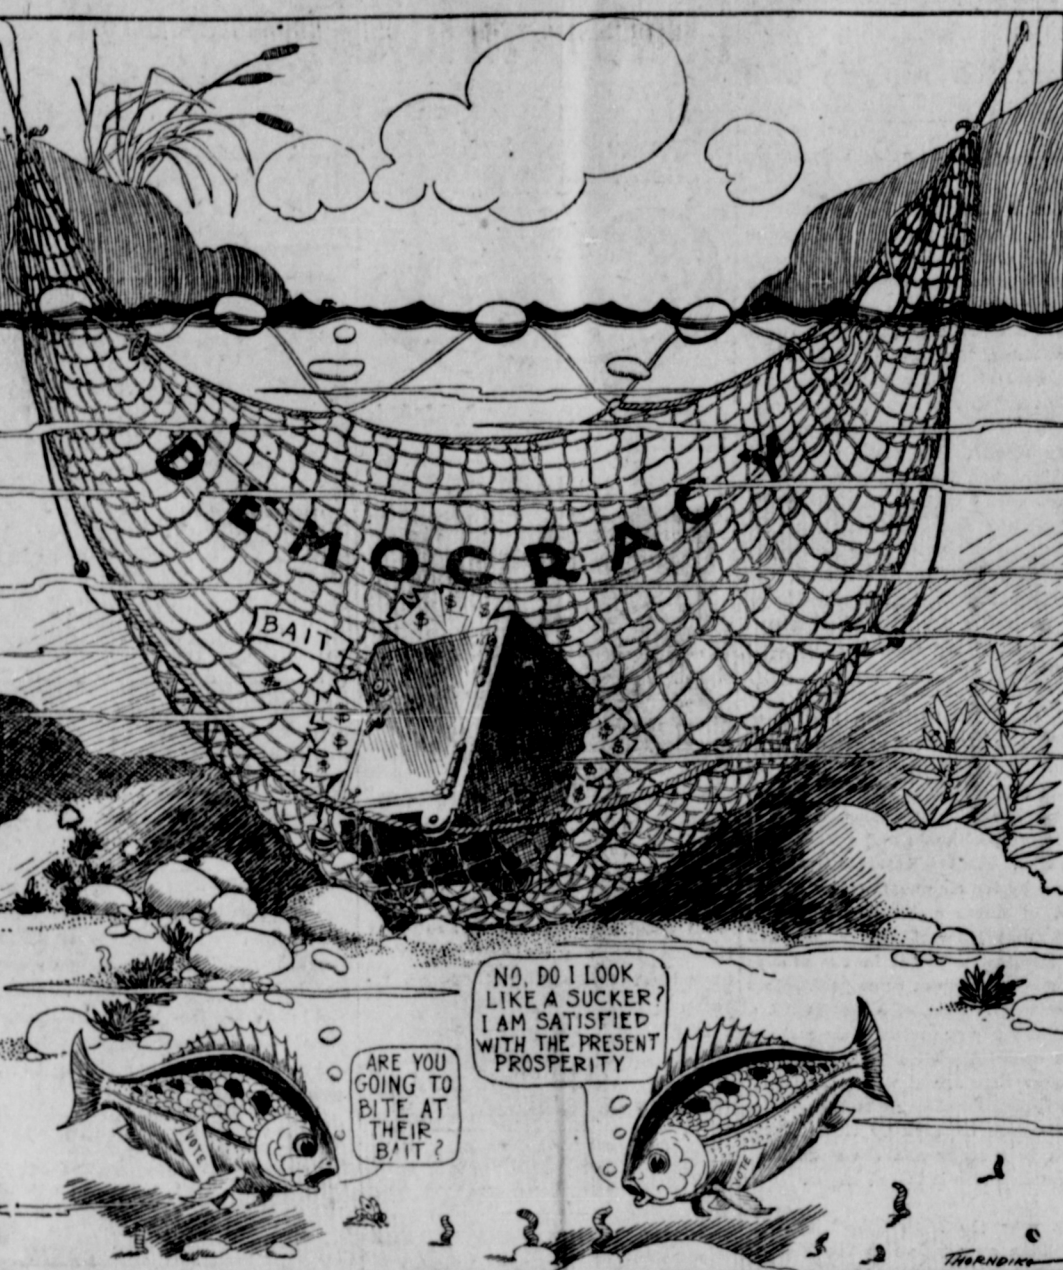

SUICIDE'S BODY

CHARRED REMAINS FOUND IN THE WOODS.

Shawneetown, Ill., September 29.—
While hunting in the woods near here
George Porter, a farmer, found a part of a human skeleton and the charred remains of clothing lying in a pile of ashes. Hanging on a nearby tree was a coat in the pocket of which was a note signed by W. W. Martin, of St.
Louis, who disappeared from his home about a month ago, stating that he writer contemplated committing suicide by cremation and that on that spot would be found the result of the attempt.

BUILT GAS WORKS

Mr. J. A. McCoy Visiting Paducah
for a Few Days.

He Had Not Been Here For Many Years—Started Paducah Gas Company.

Mr. J. A. McCoy, of Boston, Mass.,
is at the Palmer House. It is the first time he has been in Paducah in many years, but he found many of his old friends still here and enjoying life.

Mr. McCoy came here in 1884 and built the Paducah Gas Works, being the original owner. He was here a year and three months, and made many friends who will be glad to learn that he is here again.

The gas works were then located
down near Third and Harrison streets,
several blocks from their present location. Mr. McCoy, after finishing his work, sold his interest to "Gas" Meyers, who had charge of the plant
for several years afterwards.

A few days ago while in Louisville
Mr. McCoy ran across Mr. Meyers, who now lives there, and they at once recognized each other, although it had been years since they met.

Mr. McCoy says that Paducah has improved wonderfully. In fact he never saw a city grow more rapidly or more substantially. He is here on business of a private nature.

BRITTON CASE

WAS TODAY POSTPONED UNTIL OCTOBER 5TH.

Lexington, September 29.—Circuit court today postponed the trial of Bill Britton, charged with the murder of Jim Cookrill, at Jackson, until October 5th. Both sides were ready for trial, and the postponement was made on account of other important cases on the docket.

A COWARDLY DEED NEAR CLINTON, KY

A Farmer Shot From Ambush
Last Night.

His Wife and Baby Were Also Shot
But They May Both Recover.

THE MAN CANNOT GET WELL

Clinton, Ky., September 29.—About 7 o'clock last evening, while Kink Head, a prominent farmer, with his wife and baby, were standing in the back porch of their home about four miles east of town, they were shot from ambush.

Head was fatally wounded, and his wife and baby shot, but not seriously.
The cowardly deed is supposed to have been done by parties living in the neighborhood, as Head had had some slight trouble recently with parties living nearby. Eight or ten shots were fired from pistols and shotguns.

Sheriff Henry Hamlett and a large posse have gone to the scene of the trouble. The affair has worked up considerable excitement among the citizens here, and trouble may follow.
It is generally understood that the shooting was a kind of kluksu affair.

CASE CONTINUED

Preacher Who Killed His Son
Not Tried at Calhoun.

Mr. R. P. Morris, of Paducah, One of the Witnesses in The Case.

Calhoun, Ky., Sept. 29.—The case against W. W. Armer, for the murder of his son, was continued in the circuit court here until the January term.

The defendant filed several affidavits in support of a motion for a change of venue. The commonwealth filed counter affidavits and the court heard oral testimony on the subject and decided that the defendant could get a fair trial, over-ruling the motion.

Affidavits of what could be proved by absent witnesses were then filed in order to secure a continuance. These absent witnesses are said to be in Illinois, Texas, Dawson Springs, Paducah, and Muhlen-berg county. This the commonwealth would not only have to admit the witnesses would so swear, but that the statement would be true. This would,
of course, kill the whole case and merely result in the confinement of the defendant in the asylum for a brief period, and the commonwealth was forced to agree to a continuance.

The court and the commonwealth's attorney have used every means of bringing the case to trial. The sheriff went to Paducah after witnesses, and it was intended that he should stop at Dawson Springs and get witnesses there.
The question of disposing of Armer until court has not been taken up. It is probable that he will be kept in jail here as there is now no danger of a mob, if there was ever any danger.

The witness wanted here was Mr. R. P.
Morris, of 521 North Twelfth street, father-in-law of the prisoner. He was ill, but left for Calhoun. It is understood he will swear Armer is crazy.

IMPROVING IN COLORADO.

Mr. Ashton Meacham, formerly of Paducah, and the first man appointed rural mail carrier for Paducah, is improving at Pueblo, Col., where he went for his health some time ago.
He is a brother of Mr. D. A. Meacham,

HAPPENINGS IN WORLD OF POLITICS

Senator Fairbanks Rebukes
President's Critics.

Senator Beveridge Opens The Campaign In Indianapolis—Dr.
Swallow Speaks.

JUDGE PARKER IN NEW YORK

Helena, Mont. Sept. 29.—Charles W.
Fairbanks last night discussed the charges of corruption made against the republican party. He refrained from the mention of Parker's name, but it was understood by all that the speech was inspired by utterances of the democratic candidate on this subject in his letter of acceptance. Speaking of the part played by President Roosevelt in the prosecution of postoffice scandals,
Senator Fairbanks said:

"He has enforced the laws. He has driven corruption out of public places.
Theodore Roosevelt determined that so far as lay in his power a betrayer of the general interest should be whipped out of place and power. He set to work a corps of inspectors in the great postoffice department—one of the greatest pieces of official mechanism in the world.
The president undertook to find out whether some one was betraying his trust and he made discoveries; not many, but a few, comparatively. Who were the offenders? Some republicans, some democrats. He brought evil doers to the bar of justice. The department of justice prosecuted them, and in many cases the guilty are wearing stripes of guilt."

"Those who talk of corruption in the administration must bear in mind, if they are just, that there is no man living with a higher conception of civic duty,
with more exalted ideal of official responsibility than Theodore Roosevelt.
He has no sympathy for wrong doers, because he is a right doer himself. Clean himself, he wishes all men in the public service to be likewise clean."

"A continuance of President Roosevelt's administration means a continuance of the rigid, searching scrutiny of all officials of the government and a certain condemnation and punishment of evil doers, no matter how low or how exalted they may be."

This outline of the president's course was received with general applause.

SENATOR BEVERIDGE SPOKE.

Indianapolis, Sept. 29.—At no time since the republican meeting of the campaign in Indianapolis was held in Tomlinson hall
last night. An illuminated procession escorted Senator Albert J. Beveridge and Congressman Overstreet to the hall,
which was well filled.

Congressman Overstreet presided and introduced Senator Beveridge.

JUDGE PARKER'S CALLERS.

New York, Sept. 29.—At no time since Alton B. Parker was nominated as the candidate of the democratic party for president has he met so many members of his party who occupy high positions politically and commercially, as on his present visit to New York. The candidate's rooms at the Hotel Seville, which were filled yesterday, were overrun with visitors today. Many came to discuss subjects of interest in campaign work and others to congratulate Parker on his letter of acceptance and his campaign generally. For the first time on the New York trips the candidate accepted a dinner invitation.

DR. SWALLOW TALKS.

Cleveland, Sept. 29.—The prohibition party candidate for president, Dr. Silas C. Swallow, was the principal speaker at a meeting of prohibitionists at the Salvation Army citadel auditorium last night.

Dr. Swallow said that the most interesting development of the present campaign from a prohibition standpoint was the interest taken in the subject by the press. He said he had found it difficult in former campaigns to get notice in daily and weekly publications, but this year publishers sought articles on the subject of prohibition.

supposed to have been tramps, were struck by a Baltimore & Ohio train here today. Four were killed and the fifth is at a hospital here, fatally injured.

FALL OF ASHES.

Rome, Sept. 29.—There has been a plentiful fall of fine ashes, or sand in Southern Italy which is attributed to the eruption of Mount Vesuvius, or the strong winds from the African desert.

ROBERTS CONVICTED.

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 29.—A message received from Judsonia announces that the jury brought in a verdict of guilty against John V. Roberts, fixing his punishment a fine of $1,000 and six months in jail. He was charged with complicity in the Dr. Lytle insurance fraud, and was a candidate for congress
at the time of his arrest.

BOYS FOLLOW

The Example Set by Their Elders.

School Children Establish a Strike and
"Picket" the School House.

Chicago, September 29.—Because of a mistaken belief that an assistant kindergarten just engaged for service in their school was a negro, fifty boys stationed themselves as pickets
around the McAllister Public School yesterday and prevented pupils from entering. None of the pickets is more than 15 years of age.

Outside the picket cordon a crowd of 700 boys and girls hooted and yelled at the teachers looking from the windows of the school building.

Every infant "striker" wore a badge to show that he or she belonged to a "union." Some of the badges were mostly scraps of paper with the word "union" scrawled across it.
Others were union buttons which their fathers had worn. Many of the strikers carried clubs. They threatened violence against any child daring
to enter the school yard.

After a detail of six policemen had been sent to the school to preserve order the "strike" was "settled." A committee appointed by the youthful "strikers" learned that the rumor of a colored teacher having been employed in the school was false. About 80 per cent of the "strikers" went back to their classes. Truant officers began a search for the absentees.

LUELLA WARREN IS BEING CUT DOWN

She Will be Used to Tow Staves in Duck River Soon.

Paducah Is to Lose Her Fastest Steamboat—The Chattanooga's Future.

OTHER NEWS OF RIVERS

The Luella Warren is on the docks being "cut down" in order to fit her for the Duck River stave trade. Mr. J. L. Kilgore, of the Paducah Coopers Company, owns the largest part of her, and needs a boat for the Duck river trade. Mr. Kilgore has returned to Paducah and resumed his old place as manager of the Paducah Coopers Company.

River men tell an interesting story in connection with Duck river. The stream has been considered navigable to Centerville, Tenn., a distance of 62 miles, for some years, and the government spent money improving it, which it is said under federal laws gives the government future control over it as soon as a dollar is spent by the government for improvements.

The legislature of Tennessee, however, has decided otherwise, and has enacted laws that the river is unnavigable, thus placing it in control of the various counties through which it passes.

Bridges have been built under which few boats can pass. There is one bridge that it is said none but the smallest boat can get under, and the result is that it has almost killed the Duck river business, which was quite heavy in ties and staves.

Mr. Kilgore has a large quantity of staves up there, and recently he could not get a boat under the bridges, and had to throw the staves in the river and let them float down, taking chances of recovering them below after they had passed under the bridges. It is understood that he is preparing to bring suits against every county in Tennessee in which he was put to this trouble and expense, claiming that the river is controlled by the government, and that the counties have no right to put up the bridges they have, destroying navigation.

It is with genuine regret that the people of Paducah yesterday learned that the Dick Fowler is to be sold, and will probably never run in the Paducah-Cairo trade again. Captain Joe Fowler says that he would pretty near sooner have his arm cut off than give her up, but there is no use for her now, as it is too expensive to run her part of the year and then charter a low water boat the remainder, as is being done now.

The Dick Fowler is the fastest boat between Pittsburgh and New Orleans, and has never been passed by a steamboat. Her whistle was on the famous Idlewild, built in 1870, and has been whistling almost daily in this port for thirty-four years.

River men at the wharf today estimated that the Dick, during her ten years' service in the Cairo trade, has carried an average of 150 people a day between the various landings, or over half a million since she started. She has never lost, through the carelessness or negligence of the crew, a single passenger or piece of baggage, which is a record of which the Fowler Company is justly proud.

The Dick has smashed all records for these parts. She has a record from Cairo to Evansville of 14 hours and 47 minutes.

From Cairo to Paducah, 3 hours and 28 minutes. Paducah to Cairo, 2 hours and 17 minutes. As yet it is not known to whom the boat will be sold.

Captain J. N. Trigg, the new owner of the Chattanooga, is one of the wealthiest men of Chattanooga, and is to organize a new company to operate the boat. The company that formerly owned her was composed of about 70 merchants of Chattanooga, and the new company will probably be something on the same order. The boat is considered quite a bargain. She is estimated to be worth at least $10,000, and perhaps more than that. Nothing will likely be done towards refitting the steamer until the new company is organized.

The river is rising slowly now, but river men hardly expect it to last long. Today it is 2.4, a rise of one-tenth. The weather is hot and clear.

No coal is being moved from Pittsburgh. Hundreds of loaded barges are lying in the Monongahela pools, and will remain there until there is a good coal stage in the Ohio.

The Evansville packet Bob Dudley passed Carrsville shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, and is due here at 3 p. m. She will leave again as soon as she makes her transfers.

The Tennessee will arrive today out of Tennessee river and return again Saturday night.

The Clyde left at 6 p. m. yesterday for Tennessee river with a good trip.

The Henry Harley left at 8 a. m. today for Cairo with a good trip of passengers and freight.

The Royal arrived today from Golconda and returned at 3 p. m.

Clerk Frank Mantz is ill of fever and it is feared may have a severe case.

The total commissions for selling the Chattanooga were $128. One hundred dollars of this, to the cent, goes to the marshal as his commission.

ACCESSES.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss., writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract and an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg, so one day I went to J. F. Lord's drug store (who is now in Denver, Colo.) He recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment; I got a 50c size, and it cured my leg. It is the best liniment in the world."

ACCESSES, with few exceptions, are indicative of constipation or debility. They may, however, result from blows or from foreign bodies, introduced into the skin or flesh, such as splinters, thorns, etc.

NO MEETING

BOARD OF HEALTH WILL PROBABLY NOT MEET SOON.

President Jeff D. Robertson, of the board of health, stated this morning that there was no occasion to call a meeting of the board of health any way soon as there was nothing of especial importance to come up.

The matter of sanitation is being properly looked after, Dr. Robertson stated, as the board is keeping an eye on it. The city for quite a while was in a bad shape in regard to sanitation, but the inspectors got a jacking-up and are doing good work and making the residents clean up their yards and look to alleys and other places which are in an unsanitary condition.

ROUSING MEETING TONIGHT.

This evening there will be a rousing meeting of the Elks, and the matter of erecting a new building on the Elks lot adjoining the Baptist parsonage and government building will be voted on and probably settled. It is expected that the attendance will be the largest in many months, and all members are urged not to miss it.

Republicans, if you would vote, register Tuesday, October 4th.

DISMISS SCHOOLS BECAUSE OF HEAT

Only One Session Held in Public Schools Today.

The High School Has Largest Class in History—Mr. Warren Sights Goes to Chicago University.

HONORS FOR PADUCAH BOYS

On account of the extreme hot weather which has suddenly swooped down on us, the schools today held but one session, being dismissed at noon for the remainder of the day. This will be done again tomorrow if the hot weather continues.

"The pupils can not do good work during such hot weather," Supt. Lieb stated this morning, "and we thought that I would be best to dismiss at noon and give but a half-day session rather than to plod through the day with unsatisfactory results. We want good work and when conditions are such that we can not secure it, it is best, we think, to adopt any means by which we can better it. Pupils will work harder and better with half a day's session this kind of weather than if they had to remain the entire day, and when in case of the latter, they don't half do their work."

This week Miss Stewart, teacher of English, who has charge of the dramatic club in the High School, will finish the work of organization. She will hold a meeting either this afternoon or tomorrow after school hours and elect officers of the club. The first entertainment will be given by the club next week. It will consist of music and dramatic recitations. Miss Stewart thinks she has some excellent material in the schools and hopes to turn out some good actors and actresses. This, of course is not a scheduled study or course in the schools, but is operated with a view of recreation more than actual work. Anything which is done for pleasure and entertainment is done more easily than if prescribed as a study and the outlook of the dramatic club is indeed bright.

This year the High School will be larger than ever before in the history of the Paducah schools. Already there are 130 pupils in the High School and when the present term ends there will be 50 more admitted from the 8th grade. The new arrangements make it possible for graduation from the 8th grade in the middle of the year, after the first term. This will make a total of about 180 pupils, the largest class in the history of the schools.

The enrollment this year is several hundred more than expected and nearly all enrolled are attending. The attendance this year is better up to the enrollment than ever before, and the teachers are encouraged. Many pupils who enroll at the opening of school drop out later and cut down the attendance a great deal, but few such cases have been reported this season.

Dr. H. P. Sights will leave tomorrow morning for Chicago with his son Warren Sights, a graduate of the Paducah High School, to enter the son into the University of Chicago.

The boy will be used as a test case to learn if the Paducah schools can turn out graduates qualified to enter the university without the preliminary preparatory course which students generally have to take before entering such large schools and colleges.

The Paducah graduate is a very bright boy and graduated with next to the highest per cent in the class. He already had made 16 units, one more unit than is required to enter the Chicago University, but he studied this summer and made even a better showing. If he enters without having to stand a preparatory course, this will insure the standing of Paducah schools in the future in regard to large universities and colleges.

Two popular Paducah boys have just won signal honors in the college they are attending at Springfield, Tenn. Mr. Marshall Puryear has been elected president of the senior class, and Mr. J. Science Destroys Rats and Mice.

Many readers of this paper have been greatly annoyed the last month or so with an unusual number of rats and mice, or both. Traps have been of no avail in ridding them of these pests. We are glad to tell them that science has discovered a means of driving rats and mice from the house to die. This is Stearns' Electric Rat and Roach Paste. Its sale has been remarkable, and it never fails. If you cannot get the Paste of your dealer, write direct to the Stearns' Electric Paste Co., Tribune Building, Chicago, Ill., and it will be sent to you express prepaid on receipt of price. It is easy to use, and rids the house of rats, mice, cockroaches, etc. Small size, 25c; Hotel size, eight times the quantity, $1.00. 30

CONSTIPATION

"For over nine years I suffered with chronic constipation and during this time I had to take an injection of warm water once every 24 hours before I could have an action on my bowels. THE EVANGELIST GIVES A HOT SHOT

Replies to Mayor Yeiser's Open Letter.

He Says the Mayor "Sure Do Know His Business" as the Mayor of Paducah.

THE CHAPTER IS ENDED

Rev. Holcomb, before leaving for St. Louis, wrote the following open letter to Mayor Yeiser in reply to the open letter of the mayor published yesterday:

Dear Sir:—Your waiting to reply to my pulpit utterances until after I closed the meeting reminds me of what an old negro said when he saw one fellow beat another into a jelly: "Boss, if fighting is your business, you sure do know your business." Now, Mr. Mayor, if politics is your business, you sure do know how to play politics in this city. You know just how to step down and appoint committees to advance your own interests; and just when to reply to a minister—that is, after he finishes his work. I wish you had published your card in the afternoon papers. If you had, Chief of Police Collins and all his associates could not have gathered up the fragments of your imperial majesty.

As to the dignity of my calling, if you would fill the dignity of your office as mayor of Paducah, it would be unnecessary for me to speak against those abominations that you condone. As to my knowledge of law and facts I based my remarks upon your conversation with two ministers of this city. You told them that you would instruct the chief of police to stop the Sunday performance, and you did not do what you said you would.

You said further that such a theatrical performance was unnecessary, as the city is not a pauper. After this the ministers went into their pulpits and urged the people to stand by you. But when you failed I condemned you.

Mr. English has more respect for the Christian feeling of this city than the mayor. He does not claim to be anything but a man of the world—while you are a BIG professor of religion.

While I am down on the business of the manager of the Kentucky, I have infinitely more respect for him than I have for the mayor of Paducah. If you had the manhood to speak out against the saloons of this city, and support the preachers, all decent people would respect you more.

If I am ignorant of law and facts, so are you. I am not supposed to know your business, but you are supposed to know about these things. Within a year a gambling den was discovered in the city within a square of your residence, only by the murder of one gambler by another on Sunday night over an open saloon, the existence of which gambling den you declared your ignorance. If a mayor of a city be not expected to know the moral and criminal condition of the city, what is he expected to know? Mayor, "you sure do know your business"—which is to remain ignorant of the abominations connected with the present administration.

You said the people came to hear me preach, wanting "bread of life" and they got "a stone." I gave them a good message full of "the bread of life" (that you in your high church life profess to have tasted, but bring so little of it into your professional life). Then I did cast "a stone," and it struck the mayor between the eyes—from the way he is howling—and, Mayor, if you had been at the church and heard 1,000 or 1,200 people, some of the best in the city, clap their hands and rejoice over the "stone" given, you would have realized how certain people feel over your administration.

There are hundreds of prostitutes distributed over this city and no effort is being made by the administration to suppress them. Mayor, "you sure do know your business."

There are 86 saloons, said to be open day and night and Sunday, too, and no effort made to close or even regulate them.

You vetoed the 10:30 closing ordinance, but you are either powerless to close the saloons or you don't want to, and if you are powerless, you are too weak to be mayor, and if you don't want to, your profession as a church official is hypocritical. For nine years you have had the chance to demonstrate what you can do. Now if you can't do anything more, I would resign in favor of some man good and strong enough to fill "the dignity of the office as mayor."

Yours, etc.,
WALTER HOLCOMB.

TEMPORARY MARKET WAS OPENED TODAY

Tobacco Warehouse at Second and Jefferson Being Used

It Accommodates the Butchers and a Portion of the Grocers.

OLD BUILDING NEARLY DOWN

For the first time in many years, since 1884, when the high water submerged the market house, Paducah's market is not at Second and Broadway. This morning bright and early the market opened in the tobacco warehouse at Second and Jefferson. The warehouse in use is the one farthest north, in the group of three.

All day yesterday and a part of last night the butchers and others worked hard to get things in shape, and this morning the interior looked quite a great deal like the old market house, only somewhat better and more metropolitan. The temporary market, if anything, is better than the old.

The butchers are arranged pretty much the same way they were in the old market house, but half of the building is used by the grocers.

At the entrance, which is on Second street, you can go either into the vegetable or meat departments, one being on one side of the building and the other on the other.

In addition many wagons are on the outside with their loads of vegetables, the room inside not being sufficient to accommodate them all.

The only inconvenience thus far is in getting wagons inside the building. In order to unload the meats and vegetables the wagons are driven into the building, as it would be too far to have to carry everything from the entrance, and there is no way to reach the benches through the sides.

The early wagons have no trouble, but the late wagons encounter the crowds, through which it is very annoying to have to drive them, both to the drivers and the public.

Market Master Smalley has everything in as good shape as possible, however, and expects to gradually straighten things out until there is little complaint possible. It is a matter of conjecture when the new market house will be finished and the butchers and others can move back to Second and Broadway, but many think it will be next May, and are consequently making arrangements to be as comfortable as possible in the temporary quarters, through the winter.

The work of razing the old market house is proceeding rapidly. The benches have been removed and much of the other material. The most difficult part of the work, will be the removal of the brick and stone.

Many of the older citizens have been trying to figure out how long the old market house has been standing there. It is likely that few can remember when there was no market at Second and Broadway, but there are a few. There was formerly a market west of the present one, but the present market has been there about 53 years, and was built under the administration of Mr. McGregor.

There are parts of the building that have been standing there all this time, but much of it has since been added in the way of extensions and repairs.

During the high water the market was used for quite awhile even after the water got up so high, skills being used to reach it, and even to go through it at one stage of the game. Finally the water got so high, however, that no market could be held, and except that time this is the first time in fifty-three years that Second and Broadway could not be used as a market.

CHIEF WOOD TO MAKE SEVERAL CHANGES

Does Not Expect to Put Into Effect His Ideas Now.

So Much Has Been Done This Year That He Will Wait Until Spring.

BOYS MAKE GOOD TIME

Fire Chief James Woods has a head full of new ideas about improvements to the local departments, but will not ask the city to do anything more until next spring.

The day Chief Woods returned to the city after attending the Chattanooga meeting of fire chiefs and the St. Louis fair, incidentally the Louisville departments and St. Louis departments, Police and Fire Commissioner J. K. Bonds had a long talk with him. Mr. Bonds is one of the most diligent and progressive workers in the interest of the city and readily took up with the new ideas of Chief Woods. Mayor Yeiser and Mr. Bonds were talking in the mayor's office when City Jailor Tom Evitts came in and asked for a whitewash spray brush to take the place of whitewash brushes at the hall.

Mayor Yeiser asked him if it wouldn't be expensive to buy such a thing, and Mr. Bonds spoke up: "You go ahead and buy it for the man. Just wait until you see Chief Woods and get onto a few of his new ideas about improvements to the fire departments, and when you find out what you are up against next year, you won't balk at a whitewash brush."

Chief Woods was benefitted greatly by his visit to Chattanooga, Louisville and St. Louis and has many improvements he will ask for next year which will greatly add to the facilities for fire fighting. They are all comparatively small, but still, taken as a whole will mean the expenditure of much money. The fire commissioners have promised him co-operation when he asks for the additional appropriation for the improvements next year.

Chief Wood last night turned in an alarm from box 23 to ascertain how soon the four departments could get there. The result was that department No. 1, made the run of six and a fourth blocks in two minutes, No. 2, ten blocks in three and a half minutes, No. 3, nine blocks, in three minutes, and No. 4 the, South Side department, sixteen blocks with 7,000 pounds of equipment, in four and a half minutes. The South Side department, accordingly made the best time in proportion to the distance traveled.

When a native lady enters a Japanese railway carriage she slips her feet from her tiny shoes, stands upon the seat and then sits demurely with her feet doubled beneath her. ACTING GOVERNOR THORNE IS TURNING OUT MURDERERS.

Louisville, Ky., September 29.—Clem Buchter, who committed one of the bloodiest and most atrocious murders ever committed in this city and who was serving a life sentence in the penitentiary at Frankfort was pardoned yesterday by Acting Governor Thorne. Buchter shot and killed his daughter with whom he was accused of being guilty of immoral conduct. He was jealous of her through moral perversion. After killing his daughter he also shot his wife, who was striving to save the daughter from his fury. He had the benefit of two trials but the jury gave him a life sentence. The plea of insanity was never given any consideration. Governor Thorne gives no reason for his pardon.

NOW AN OLD MAN.

Frankfort, Ky., September 29.—Acting Governor W. P. Thorne granted a pardon to Eli Collins, of Letcher county, serving a life sentence for murder. Collins had served eighteen years in the prison, and was conspicuous for his good conduct. He is now 64 years old and very feeble. The reasons given for the pardon were the age of the man and his good conduct. He was sentenced on December 8, 1886.

RAPID RISE

FROM TICKET AGENT TO PRESIDENT OF 24,000 MILES OF RAILWAY.

Chicago, Ill., September 29.—William H. Newman, who started in business life as a ticket agent on the Texas and Pacific railroad, will next month become the head of the greatest railway system the world has ever known. Newman, as head of the Vanderbilt lines, combined and placed under one management, will control nearly 24,000 miles of railway, with a capital stock of $1,169,196,133. He will control railway lines that, if the doubled-tracked and side tracks were counted, would girdle the earth with a double chain of iron.

The reorganization will be the most radical ever attempted by any railway. The highest officers of the Vanderbilt roads will compose the board of directors, and Newman will be chairman. He will resign the presidency of the New York Central.

Under the direction of Mr. Newman will be 132 subcompanies or subsidiary corporations and he will control wealth enough to purchase an empire. William C. Brown of Chicago, now vice president of the Lake Shore, will occupy a position second only to that of Mr. Newman, for upon him will devolve the active direction of the entire Vanderbilt system. His offices will be moved from Chicago to New York.

KILLED BY FALL

SUPERINTENDENT OF THE CENTRAL COAL AND IRON COMPANY DEAD.

Mr. E. A. Foster, superintendent of the mines of the Central Coal and Iron Company, at Central City, Ky., fell from the tippie day before yesterday while at work, and was precipitated twelve feet to the ground, a piece of lumber falling on him. Injuries about the head and neck resulted in his death yesterday. He was 67 years old and a native of Coaldale, Pa. A wife and four children survive him.

The remains were today taken to Pennsylvania for burial, accompanied by wife, two sons and Mr. John S. Hobson, general manager of the mines.

"DO IT TODAY."

The time-worn injunction, "Never put off 'til tomorrow what you can do today," is now generally presented in this form: "Do it today!" That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demoralizing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for it TODAY—and let that remedy be Dr. Boschee's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. For sale by DuBois, Kolb & Co.

EXPORT DISCOUNTS.

Some thirty pages of the democratic Campaign Textbook are devoted to its so-called exposition of the claims that American manufacturers sell their products in foreign markets at a lower price than the same products are sold in the domestic market. Without at this time going into this subject more deeply, we should like to ask the management of the democratic campaign why they did not insert at least another page, or a portion of another page, giving the following paragraph from our last three tariff laws, it being identical in the McKinley law, the Wilson-Gorman law and the present Dingley law:

"That where imported materials on which duties have been paid are used in the manufacture of articles manufactured or produced in the United States, there shall be allowed on the exportation of such articles a drawback equal in amount to the duties paid on the materials used, less 1 per centum of such duties."

It will be seen that when the democratic party was in power they provided for the export of certain goods which must come in contact in foreign markets with the products of foreign manufacturers, and that their own tariff law gave the same rebate duties upon raw material used in the manufacture of goods for export as have republican laws. Why did not our democratic friend tell us if that provision was a mistake and if it would be repealed if they had another opportunity, to revise the tariff. This cry against lower prices abroad than at home is disingenuous, dishonest and insincere. Well do the democrats know that it is not a distinctly American custom. Well do they know that the tariff has no bearing whatever upon the practice save as the rebate clause enables us to take advantage of imported raw materials used for export products. Well do the democratic manufacturers know that the practice originated with Free Trade England and her manufacturers. Well do they know that not a single American citizen is injured in the slightest way by the practice, but on the contrary that millions of American laborers are benefited by fuller hours of employment and higher wages, because of an increased output and the sale of perhaps a small surplus abroad at cost and sometimes, it must be admitted, even below cost.

THE COURT OF APPEALS.

The democratic court of appeals is all right. It has sustained the registration law, although the opinion of the court frankly admits "that the act in several respects is defective." Other laws are declared unconstitutional by this court every day on account of some trivial technicality, but this law is all right, although "in several respects defective." The court goes further, and tries to patch up the law in places left exposed by the democrats who passed it. Although there is nothing in the law to justify it, the court kindly decides that every officer of the registration must sign the certificate given to a voter when he goes to register. The length of time this will consume can better be imagined than told. Besides this, the court of appeals decides that the county clerk may issue certificates to those who could not register on the regular day, for which there is also no provision in the registration law. The court of appeals seems to have resolved itself into a law-making as well as a law-interpreting body. The next time the democrats undertake political legislation, however, they ought to have someone with a little common sense draw up the laws. The new registration law is about the most obscure, bunglesome document ever seen. The only thing clear about it is the purpose for which it was passed.

REPUBLICAN WAGES.

Says the Democratic Campaign Textbook: "The real wages of labor are goods not dollars." True enough, and the clothing and the furniture, the pianos, the sewing machines, the talking machines, the thousand and one articles which go to make up the comforts and conveniences and luxuries of the home which have been under a republican administration and operation of a protective tariff are a testimony to this assertion that the real wages are goods and not dollars. The acquirement of these goods simply goes to prove that the American people have had a large increase in the real wages which are the rewards of their labor.

A rank forgery printed in a Colorado miner's paper, no doubt for political purposes, has been exposed. It purports to be a letter from President Roosevelt to Donnelly, president of the butchers' union, and considering the manner in which it has been copied by the democratic papers without attempting to confirm its authenticity, it would not be difficult to guess who inspired it, nor what is its purpose. President Roosevelt repudiated the letter as soon as his attention was called to it, and Donnelly denies ever receiving such a letter, or giving anything of the kind out. A great many contemptible things are done in a campaign, but it is not often that anyone resorts to the extremity of forging the name of the president of the United States to a letter, calculated to injure him with those he has never failed to serve in every possible way—the laboring men. The person who committed the forgery should be promptly arrested and punished to the full extent of the law.

The democratic papers are saying: "Someone acting in the interest of the republican party is urging the populists to nominate candidates in four or five districts in this state where in the past they have cast a good size vote. There is no pretense, if such candidates are named, they will have a ghost of a chance to win, but it is hoped by the national republican committee and is part of their plan to take enough votes from the democrats to elect republicans to congress in these districts."

The republicans can only ask in reply: "Well, what are you going to do about it?" The populists deserted the democratic ranks of their own accord, and they are fighting the democrats of their own accord. If it is hurting the democrats, that is only one of the penalties of surrendering to the Wall street crowd.

There doesn't seem to be any occasion for expressions of surprise or alarm over recent railway accidents, although the press is full of them. Thousands of trains are run every day without an accident, to every one that is wrecked. As long as railroad trains are operated by human beings, which will likely be quite a while, there will be mistakes and disasters.

The enthusiasm over Judge Parker's letter of acceptance seems to be confined exclusively to the press reports in the democratic papers. How any man of intelligence can read the cold, insipid effort without a feeling of pity for its misguided author, is hard to understand. But perhaps none does.

The democratic court of appeals has sustained the democratic law requiring a certificate of registration before voting. But of what use would the court of appeals be to the democrats if it didn't do such things?

Acting Governor Thorne seems to be getting in his hand at last. Two pardons in one day, one of a moral pervert and cold blooded murderer now turned loose on the community again, is not very encouraging.

Bad Negro Will Not Escape
With Local Fine.

Will Be Taken to Eddyville When He Serves His Fine Here.

Jordan Lightney, alias Lightfoot, alias Sam Jones, the negro who tried to shoot and cut Geo. F. Mullinix, conductor on train No. 122, at Dulaney Tuesday, will not get off lightly as he thought he would when Judge D. L. Sanders yesterday fined him $20 and costs for disorderly conduct.

Lightney refused to pay his fare and when the conductor told him to get off, pulled a big gun and knife and started in to kill the conductor. Passengers in the car assisted in overpowering Lightney and when Paducah was reached the man was turned over to Officers Singery and Woods.

On the depot platform he was unruly and used profane language until the officers had to nearly gag him to make him stop. The defendant pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct, thinking this would cover the case on the train, but it didn't, as facts developed this morning showed.

This morning Special Agent W. T. Dinneen, of the Louisville division, arrived in the city to look after the prisoner. He stated that as soon as the Paducah fine was served the negro would be taken to Eddyville and tried for assault. The records of the authorities show Lightney to be a bad customer and the I. C. never fails to prosecute people interfering with its business and does not intend to let this matter go unnoticed. The I. C. detectives are working hard securing names of witnesses and getting them summoned to appear when the case is brought to trial.

NO HOPE.

Democrats Will Not Try to Carry
Rocky Mountain States.

New York, Sept. 29.—Chairman Cortelyou, of the Republican national committee, expected that the Democratic campaign managers would make a strenuous fight in Colorado, Utah, Nevada, Wyoming and the Dakotas. Advice received at Republican headquarters from those states, however, indicate that so far, the Democratic national committee has practically ignored the Rocky Mountain states, and that they have little chance or hope of carrying any of the small western states, except possibly Montana. In that state the campaign is in charge of Senator W. A. Clark. All of the Pacific coast states are classed as safely Republican.

J. O. Hays, of San Jose, vice chairman of the California state central committee, visited Republican national headquarters this morning to talk over the situation in the far west. He predicted that California would give Roosevelt and Fairbanks the largest majority in its political history. Mr. Hays said that the Republicans of Oregon were so confident of success that they predicted two votes for Roosevelt for every one for Parker. California, Oregon and Washington, he said, would all five very large majorities for Roosevelt and Fairbanks.

BOARD OF WORKS
MEETS THE EXPERT

Electrical Engineer Humphreys
Goes Over Light Plant.

The Bids For Kentucky Avenue
Storm Water Sewerage Will Be Advertised Tomorrow.

STREET WORK IS CURTAILED

This morning the board of public works met with Engineer H. H. Humphreys, of St. Louis, an electrical expert who is here to inspect the city electrical light plant, see what is needed to furnish the number of lights needed, and draw plans for enlarging it next year.

The board with City Electrical Superintendent Keebler went over the plant and inspected circuits and the engineer will in a few days draw plans for the enlargement of the plant and service and these will be followed out when the plant is enlarged next year.

Mr. Humphreys is the expert visited by Mr. Saunders Fowler, secretary of the board, during a recent trip to St. Louis.

The board of public works held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon instead of last night. It was decided to advertise tomorrow for the storm water sewers on Kentucky avenue from 1st to 5th streets, and on Second street from Broadway to Kentucky avenue.

Today, by order of the board, notice was served on the telephone and telegraph companies that the contract for paving Broadway will be let Monday, and that all poles and wires must be removed from Fifth to Ninth in time to get them out of the way of the contractor. The new law does not require the wires placed under ground, but it is probable that most of them will be.

The board still has nearly $5,000 in the general street fund and believes it can do small repairs on the streets until the first of the year, after which time money can be borrowed on appropriations for the year.

Today about five men in the street department were laid off, and there will hereafter be employed only enough to do the most necessary work.

The board is considering for the council to authorize the exchange of street rollers, by which it will get a new roller for the old one and about $1,700. The old street roller has been ruined by those who tried to operate it in past years.

The board finished the work of checking up the Terrill street improvement estimates with Engineer Washington and also looked over some plans he has drawn for the grades for Second street from Broadway to Kentucky avenue for the paving. His plans were adopted and will be followed when the contract for paving that street is let.

NOT SATISFIED.

Eryan Democrats Are Clamoring for Another Convention.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 28.—The anti-Parker Democratic national league, with the object of enlisting every Democrat opposed to the Democratic presidential nominee, has just been organized in Chicago. It was announced that the league will have branches in every county in the northern states, and in a good many of those in the south. The officers of the league are: President, A. W. Maxwell, former chairman of the Democratic committee; vice president, Thomas N. Haskins, former member of the Illinois state committee; secretary, George P. Locke, former chairman of the Kansas state executive committee; treasurer, Michael D. Callahan of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad.

The objects of the league, as outlined by Locke, are as follows: To be in touch with every Democrat who is opposed to the election of Parker; to work against the undemocratic element that controlled the St. Louis convention; to reorganize the Democratic party so that it will be in a position to elect a Democratic candidate when one of Democratic principles is nominated four years hence. It was said that the names of 10,000 disaffected Democrats already had been secured.

The "Sign of the Cross" Company arrived in the city this afternoon with two car loads of special scenery and a large troupe of actors. This is the first time this production has ever been given in this city and as it has been highly recommended by both clergy and press, should draw well. The sale of seats has been steady all day and from present indications there will be a large house tonight.

One of the leading features of City Hall Square, at San Francisco, which just fringes that city's famous Chinatown, is the Robert Louis Stevenson monument, dedicated to that author after his "Treasure Island." It will also be recalled that Mr. Stevenson is the author of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," one of the favorite characters played by that eminent actor, Thomas E. Shea, who will be seen here shortly.

May Phelps, a charming high soprano, is the latest "Miss Bob White," having succeeded Cecilia Rhoda in the title role.

Viola Allen and her fine company will present "The Winter's Tale" at the Broad Street Theater, Monday evening, October 10th. Miss Allen's success in the Shakespearean comedies has been phenomenal, even surpassing her great good fortune in modern drama. It was her intention to put on a new play this season, but her Viola in "Twelfth Night" last season proved such a triumph that she has made a second revival, this time "The Winter's Tale," in which she doubles the roles of Hermione and Perdita. Miss Allen's supporting cast is of the first quality, and the production is described as being massive and magnificent.

Frank Dashon, the diminutive comedian who will be seen here this season with "Miss Bob White," and who was "King Dodo" here the last time it was here, is a baseball crank. Among his friends is Frank Bancroft, manager of the Cincinnati National League team. Meeting Bancroft the other day, the baseball manager inquired with whom the comedian was engaged, and on being told "Miss Bob White," further asked who was in the company. Dashon has a bad memory and stammered, but could only remember Jim McClure and himself. "Well," said Bancroft, "your battery is all right, but you must also have a good in and outfield if you expect to win the pennant."

PERFECT ENGINE.

It May Effect a Revolution in Mechanics.

New York, Sept. 28.—A perfect rotary engine, the much-desired achievement of hundreds of mechanical inventors, is the triumph which, in the opinion of eminent experts, has crowned more than a score of years' work by William M. Hoffman of Buffalo, P. T. Berg of Stockholm, Sweden, formerly of the Carnegie steel company, and now consulting engineer for the United States steel corporation, has examined Hoffman's engine for Charles M. Schwal and made a favorable report. Cornelius Vanderbilt, several of whose inventions are now in use on the New York Central railroad, has declared that if the engine bears out the claims of the inventor, it will send all the present style locomotives to the scrap iron heap.

In brief, the advantages of Hoffman's engine is that it will occupy not more than one-fourth the ordinary floor space required for the engines of similar power; it will effect a saving of one-fourth in steam; it is economical in construction and operation, and it is without vibration. For many months a small engine has been in operation and open to inspection of experts in the Elliott

HORRIBLE PRACTICE.

War in the Far East Causes Russians to Sell Their Women for Prostitution.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—Czar Nicholas has issued an order to the governors of the Southern Provinces of European Russia that they must immediately put an end to the disgraceful sale of young women which has become common since the beginning of the war.

Owing to the depression in industry and commerce caused by the war, fathers and husbands have openly sold their daughters and wives to Jewish agents, who have then exported them to South American ports.

The sale of these women has been carried on in open market without any attempt of concealment. The average price paid by the Jews for a young woman is about $50, and the trade has been enormously profitable to them, as the Russian consuls at Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Ayres have reported that the prices paid in those cities by owners of disorderly houses average $500.

In the future any man found selling or buying a woman will be banished to the Siberian mines for life.

TRIED IN EVERY POST

Strong, True, Unswerving and Conservative Is President Roosevelt.

Has Been Before the Public More Than Twenty-five Years—People Love Him.

[From J. Sloat Fassett's speech in the New York state convention.]

But after the chief issue in the present canvass the chief figure loomed up foremost in the picture, the central mark for the most persistent and aggressive assaults of the opposition, is the commanding figure of our own candidate for the presidency. For many months, in many ways, by direct assault and indirect intimation, it has been the continuous and aggressive purpose of the Democratic campaign managers to convince the American people that Theodore Roosevelt was an unsafe man; that he was impetuous and headstrong; that he was willful and perverse; that he was strenuous and iconoclastic. From his vigorous and altogether wholesome writings they have assembled garbled extracts and separate paragraphs to enforce their argument. Men who have themselves openly and defiantly shattered two amendments to the constitution intimate that the constitution is unsafe in the hands of our president. Unable to shake the faith of the people in the results of Republican policies, the attempt is making to shake the confidence of the people in the reliability of the Republican party. We can accept this disposition on the part of the Democracy to get away from principles and resort to personalities with perfect equanimity and complete confidence. Theodore Roosevelt is not a new man. He is not an unknown factor. For more than twenty-five years he has lived in the bright glare of the limelight of publicity. We have known him as boy and youth and man.

Tried In Every Post.

We have known him as legislator, as administrator, as governor, as executive officer, as soldier, as vice president and as president. In all his many doings and all his many sayings he has been constantly a progressive and aggressive American patriot, desiring the best interests of his country, struggling for the best welfare of the society in which he lived, sacrificing his time and imperiling his life if so be that by any means greater security could come to our constitution and our institutions and greater glory attach to the flag. Never at any time under his hands, or by his acts has any good law been imperiled, has any established institution of excellence been in danger, has he been any menace to any man or any measures except bad men and bad measures.

He is strong, true, unswerving and conservative. The president is young, he is positive, he is aggressive, he is abrupt, but he is honest, he is loyal, he is high minded.

His intense Americanism, his devotion to lofty ideals, his blameless personal life, his high notions of national obligations and honor, his passionate belief in the future career of this country and his rough and ready scorn of all that imperils or seems to threaten that career have deeply endeared him to the people, the plain people, the everyday you and I sort of people of the United States. He may be impulsive, he may be abrupt, but no president ever was in all essential things more conservative. The people love him, for his heart is pure. They admire him, for his courage is high. They trust him, for his open life corresponds to his open creeds. President Roosevelt typifies vigorous, ideal American manhood. He is no cringer, he is no time server, he is no coward, for such a one would never have dared to defy the lion barons on the one hand or the labor unions on the other, nor would he ever have voted for Bryan had he believed in the gold standard.

Theodore Roosevelt fortunately does not have to be judged by what his enemies say of him. He will be judged, as he has a right to demand to be judged, by what he has done through all the years of his public life, by what he has accomplished in the public service. President Roosevelt is re-nominated. President Roosevelt will be re-elected. To think anything else will be to impeach the intelligence of the American people.

A Tinker's Campaign.

[From the Evening Mail.] Tom Watson did not cover the whole case when he said, "Stealing the platform of the People's party in 1896, stealing that of the Republican party in 1904, how can Democratic leaders now pretend to lead a party based upon convictions?" A fresh programme of borrowing is announced by Bryan. He calls it "engrafting new doctrines on the party creed." Meanwhile the party, as Wendell Phillips would say, is prepared to "borrow from all quarters, high and low, north and south, friend and foe." It is not a party at all; it is a thing of shreds and patches. It will put on and take off, it will purloin without apology and discard without ceremony. It is prepared to resurrect an issue today and reinvent it tomorrow, funeral ceremonies omitted. It wears nothing of its own except the issues of "anti-imperialism" and "antimilitarism," and they are not garments at all. They are the remnants of shawl phantoms.

TOM TAGGART OF GILGAL.

The Mystery Reminds One of Hamlet's Ghost.

One of the most amusing "finds" of the campaign is the reproduction of Secretary Hay's "Pike County Ballad," published in 1871, entitled "The Mystery of Gilgal," with its reference to "Taggart hall" and Tom Taggart standing behind his bar. It is certainly a curious coincidence that Pike county should have had a barkeeping Tom Taggart back in the early seventies.

Here is the poem in full:

TOM TAGGART OF PIKE COUNTY; OR, THE MYSTERY OF GILGAL.
The darkest, strangest mystery I ever read or heard or see Is told of a drink at Taggart's hall— Tom Taggart's of Gilgal.

I've heard the tale a thousand ways, But never could sit through the maze That hangs around that queer day's doings. But I'll tell the yarn to you.

Tom Taggart stood behind his bar; The time was fall, the skies were far; The neighbors round the counter drew And 'a'my dranked and jawed.

At last came Colonel Blood of Pike And old Judge Phinn, pernickious-like, And each, as he meandered in, remarked, "A whisky skin!"

Tom mixed the beverage full and far And slammed it down, as he said, "I'll leave the choice to you."

Phinn to the drink put forth his hand; Blood drew his knife, with accent bland: "I ax yer parding, Mister Phinn— Jest 'rap that whisky skin!"

No man high-toned could be found Than old Judge Phinn the country round. Says he, "Young man, the tribe of Phinn's, Knows their own whisky skin!"

He went for his 'leven inch bowie knife— "I tries to foller a Christian life, But I'll drap a slice of liver or two, My bloomin' shrub, with you!"

They carved in a way that all admired; Tell Blood drewed from at last and nred. It took Seth Bludso' 'twixt the eyes, Which caused him great surprise.

Then coats went off, and all went in; Shots and bad language swelled the din; The short, sharp bark of derringers, Like bull pups, cheered the fun.

They piled the stiffs outside the door; They made, I reckon, a cord or more; Girls went that winter, as a rule, Alone to spellin' school.

I've searched in vain, from Dan to Beer-Sheba, to make this mystery clear, But I end with hit as I did begin— "Who got the whisky skin?"

PROGRESS IN PHILIPPINES.

American Policy Is Not Commercial Exploitation.

The welfare of the Filipinos, with commercial profit as an incident, is the American policy. Commercial exploitation for the benefit of the United Kingdom, with the incidental welfare of her subject alien races, is the British policy. With such fundamental differences in dealing with the "white man's burden," it is not surprising that A. R. Colquhoun in his recent book on "Greater America" should have been blind to what has actually been done by the United States and disparagingly critical of its efforts to govern the Philippines in harmony with its own ideals. Their acquisition was not a sequel to the enterprise of trading companies, the advance of adventures or the necessity of an outlet for surplus population, so often the case in the growth of the British empire and in the colonial experiments of other nations. It was, on the contrary, a responsibility inherited through war, accepted with reluctance and misgiving, and a duty to civilization undertaken with a full realization of its difficulties and of the sacrifices it entailed. If as a result the American republic profits commercially and is strengthened as a nation, so much the better. But the notion should be dismissed that a lust for territory or commercial ambition was the controlling motive in judging what has been done and in understanding what is planned. It was imperative that a nation founded on the idea of freedom and liberty, whose government is of the people, if true to itself should have regard for its own ideals and should endeavor to inculcate them in the minds of its wards. Theoretically, perhaps, an autocratic rule, with an ill concealed contempt for the Filipinos, would have been more successful, but the United States is not an empire, and William McKinley, who formulated the American Philippine policy, had no desire to violate our traditions, but he hoped to elevate the islanders in the solution of this problem of government.

LABOR MEN FOR ROOSEVELT

Leader of the Car Mechanics Says the Workingmen Favor Republicans.

Charles W. Stanglen of Baltimore, supreme chief of the Car Inspectors, Car Builders and Railway Mechanics of America and chairman of the conference committee of the railway employees of Maryland, whose duties carry him from one end of the country to the other, says:

"From the standpoint of the laboring class there is no doubt of the election of Roosevelt and Fairbanks with the majorities that characterized the last two campaigns. The working people are almost unanimously for the Republican nominee. I have traveled considerably in West Virginia lately, and it is my honest belief that the Republican majority in the Panhandle State will be larger than ever. Davis will never be able to carry his own state."

ERMINIE
RIVES

The chariot bearing Anne wheeled near the debtors' prison, abreast of the new capital, whose wide wings spread out like a great letter H. Scarcely had it pulled up when the west door opened and a crowd of people poured forth again the lowering burgesses.

They came out under the sparse trees, through which gleamed the sky steel blue as sword blades, quietly and in orderly groups, but with brows knit, fingers clinched and smoldering anger in their faces.

In the groups one might have seen many conditions. There was a sprinkling of homespun and buckskin, men from the shadow of the Blue Ridge and from the great district of West Augusta stretching far to the Mississippi, and with these rich planters from the tidewater and lay counties and the big rivers, clad in foreign fabrics, with ample wigs, swords and cocked hats or the central head covering then coming to vogue in England. But save a few on whose faces sat a smirch of Tory smugness all wore the same deadly look of anger and concern.

Anne leaned forward and watched the crowd with tiny furs of fire in her eyes. Broken bits of conversation were wafted to her.

"I had looked to see better things of Dunmore, but 'tis all of a piece. We, burgesses of Virginia! Waged at like so many school children, I faith, and sent home with a flea in the ear! 'Tis unbearable."

"Better things of Dunmore? A plague on him! Cry 'God save the king' and give Satan the colony!"

Such sudden growlings betokening storm and then snugs ones passing with snuff taking and derisive shrugs of shoulders:

"Henry is mad. You heard what he said at Colonel Samuel Overton's the other day. 'Independence.' 'Our Declaration.' 'Aid from Louis the Sixteenth.' He is as mad as a March hare! Treason forsooth? 'Tis a matter for a leech! As if we had discipline, ships of war or money, I tell you, he will embroil us all with such clutter. The governor would be perfectly justified in—' So they passed on.

A smile, quizzical, disapproving, but broadens kind, weathered the corners of the water-horn mouth as a tall, spinny old man with aquiline nose and sharp, gray eyes came down the street leaning on the arm of a negro steady servant. Threescore years and ten he had passed—one saw that by the lines in his face—and his frame was big and wide. He was gaunt, raven-haired and sour faced, and plainly though richly dressed, wearing a large jewel.

The girl's eyes rested shifflingly on the cocked hat, the grizzled wig, the antique coat, with its square cut lapels and shoulders rounded after a fashion of twenty years before, and then softly and lovingly on the rugged, masterful face, every whit patrician.

All her life she had loved this man—the old baron of Greenway Court. He had carried her at her christening. As she saw him now, coming slowly, but erect, bowing to salutations by the way, she thought again on what he must have looked in his youth before the French war, when he had strayed from a London world of fashion, with a heart sore by reason of a filting, they said, to bury himself in the shadows of the Blue Ridge. He had dreamed of building himself a great manor house with 10,000 acres, calling it Greenway Court, and there living solitary. But a rough hunting lodge on a spur of the mountain near Winchester was all that ever came of it.

The girl watched him as he approached, stopping now and again for a word. Each pause made him look more hot and angry, and, seeing, she shook her head as if she chid some naughty child.

As he neared her, speaking with one of the more richly dressed burgesses, his bottled wrath burst out in a flood. He raised his thorn stick and shook it at the building, choking with rage.

"Meet at the Raleigh, and look!" he shouted. "Whose palace is this? Patrick Henry's, right? I thought as much! A deer stalker!" he cried, tattooing with his cane. "A good for naught bartender! Why, he used to bring me my ale when I passed Hanover Court House. A coarse, dancing, fiddling, wench-chucking vagabond, I tell you! His father, the justice, is a good, sober country gentleman, but little the son takes after him. Come day, go day, God send Sunday! He must marry the tavern keeper's daughter!"

"My lord!" Anne's voice rose sweet and clear.

"And now because he mouths treason as bold as brass and because he wins a dirty damage case against some tuppenny parsons he sits in the burgesses and rides with gentlemen!"

"Lord Fairfax?" She was standing upright in the coach.

"Virginia is in a pretty case to take up any leather breeched Tom, Dick or Harry, wagging his jaw."

"Lord Fairfax?"

"About the king's business?"

"I wait for you to ride with me."

The old man half turned, choked, shook his cane again in the air; then, seeing the girl made her as slow and courtly a bow as if he were in an assembly. Then he climbed into the chariot and sat down.

"Go and wait at the tavern, Joe."

Anne said to his servant. The baron took Anne's slender, cool hand in his huge, bony, trembling one, and they rode silently.

After awhile the fury had burned itself out in that worn frame. "This might I care for the rest of them, my dear," he said, "but my boy Washington is with their infernal treasons, and the Whigs will ruin him!"

CHAPTER II. LEAGUES and leagues away from where the summer was come golden sandaled over Virginia, throbbing now with all the pent up intolerance, resentment, a ship which had been strained and pumped by two months packed with tempest unfolded new canvas under the crumbling splendors of a clearing sky. The day drew breezily serene. The sea had tired itself out, and the sun burned pleasantly in the blue.

One of the few passengers who the softening weather had drawn into the air—a young Frenchman, fair, slight, well knit and soberly garbed in gray—leaned upon the forward rail, with shoulders squared to the sunshine, and looked below him.

No mart of the old world could have shown a more strangely assorted company than did the lower deck of the brigantine Two Sisters out of London, bound for Yorktown, Va. Swarming o the bulwarks was a motley herd of redemptioners—a few young women of fair color, English country girls from the farm lands, looking forward to a new thing and a rosy marriage in this new land which beckoned to every creed and nation; more were hardy-faced, tall sharpened—men who had worked their trade soberly to yield it last to the spur of ambition and hunger six years of plantation labor for a passage to opportunity. Indeed, so freely were the plantation factors of Virginia that more than one colony was made to hold open arms to the old world's vagabonds, its felons and its fugitives.

Now the creatures who had wallowed in sullen waiting or cried shrilly to their saints were still or babbling of other things. From the rigging a tarred mariner bawled his lay of "Bold Jack in the Ways," and the few passengers, who had weathered the storm grumbling or fleeing below deck, were sunning themselves upon the poop.

The young Frenchman shifted his slow gaze from the redemptioners and let it run far out over the water, watching the little spots of foam that margined the great waste. He was undeniably good looking, of an elusive, fathomless charm, with a forehead grayed rather than browned. His hair was rich brown, long and curling, for he wore no wig, and his finely cut lips were set over a chin of bold delicacy. His eyes were full and hazel, his expression one of rest and eagerness.

On this day as he leaned against the rail a man was watching him intently from where he stood, farther back. The man's name was Jarrat, and he wore the uniform of a captain in his majesty's horse.

To relate that Captain Jarrat had carried his handsome face and domineering bearing aboard the ship on the day of sailing, with a letter from Lord Stormont, British ambassador in Paris, hidden in his breast pocket, is to go back a bit. Jarrat was close mouthed. As far as the other passengers were concerned he was a British officer returning to the Virginia. To a nice eye he would have betrayed an overintimate curiosity as to a certain passenger.

TOBACCO CUTTING PROGRESSING WELL

A Large Portion of the Crop is in the Barn.

The Western Counties Report a Good Grade With a Short Acresage.

SLIGHT DAMAGE BY FROST

The following status of the tobacco crop is taken from the current issue of the Western Tobacco Journal:

KENTUCKY. Tobacco cutting has progressed satisfactorily and quite a portion of the crop is in the barn. In some localities slight damage was caused by frost, but the area affected is small.

WESTERN COUNTIES.

Christian—A good crop of tobacco is being cut; yield about 65 per cent. Graves—Tobacco is of good grade, but acreage short; the greater part of crop in the house. Henderson—Good rain on 13th will help late tobacco; one-half of crop housed. Hickman—Tobacco cutting well along; only fair crop. Logan—Tobacco nearly all in the barn; is thin and light; a little frost Thursday and Friday. Muhlenburg—Light frost on 15th and 16th, but no damage; farmers in a rush cutting tobacco. Ohio—Tobacco less than half crop.

Hopkinsville—The crop is being housed rapidly during the week, and is now about three-quarters cut.

Paducah—Fully 80 per cent. of the crop has been housed, and if the weather is favorable for the next week the balance of the crop will be in the house.

Cairo, Henderson Co.—Tobacco is being rapidly cut and housed. Almost one-half the entire crop has been housed; it is about three-fourths the average crop and much better than last year.

Owensboro—The heavy rain of Sunday and Monday morning was general throughout this county and over most of the state. It will be of vast benefit in the way of supplying an abundance of stock water. The effect on tobacco cutting will not be so satisfactory. The ripe tobacco must be cut, but it can be handled to good advantage while the ground is wet or muddy, and the unripe tobacco will be started on a second growth that is never beneficial.

DISENCHANTED

[Original.] I fell in love with the name of Cyril St. Cyr, the great actor, as soon as I heard it. Soon after, my fiancé, George Marsh, took me to see him play.

St. Cyr took the part of a civil engineer upon whose management rested a great enterprise. The thoughtful expression of his face, his noble brow, his massive head, were all well fitted to the part. He was not only "star" in name, but in reality. The whole play hung upon him.

I sighed when I left the theater. Cyril St. Cyr and George Marsh—there was as much difference in the men as in the names. George was a good fellow, had been graduated with honors at college and was a gentleman, but he was not Cyril St. Cyr.

Within two weeks I had seen St. Cyr play three times. While George's photograph, prettily framed, decorated my dressing case, where no eye but mine ever saw it and from which I took it many times during the day and every night before going to bed to gaze on it rapturously. Week after week Cyril St. Cyr grew more splendid; week after week George Marsh more commonplace. It was plain to me that I had made a mistake. I was of an artistic temperament, and George was a business man. With me the world was art, not business; with George it was business, not art, and when he claimed that the two were incompatible I mentioned St. Cyr and the money he coined every night.

One evening my dream received a shock. At dinner several people were discussing the great actor.

"Everything about him," said a lady, "is artistic, even to his name."

"His name?" said one of the men. "St. Cyr isn't his name. He's Thomas Brannagan Murphy."

I gave a gasp and looked for some one to refute the statement as a base allegation, but no one seemed to think there was anything improbable or unusual in it. When I looked at my treasure that night I put it back into my handkerchief case disappointed. There were the same noble expression, lofty brow and massive head, but somehow they did not fit Thomas Brannagan Murphy.

One evening George came in hurriedly and asked me to get ready at once to go to the theater. He had made the acquaintance of St. Cyr, and we were to go behind the scenes. I flew upstairs and down again, my heart throbbing like a kettle drum.

We were at the theater half an hour or more before the play began and went directly to the stage door. We were admitted on George's sending in a card and asked to come to Mr. St. Cyr's dressing room. At the door we were given chairs while some one was inside with the actor. The door was open, and we could hear what was said.

"I have considered your proposition to write me up," said the sonorous voice of St. Cyr, "and accept it provided you permit me to do the writing myself. Here is what I have written:

"Cyril St. Cyr, the greatest living actor, owes his success to his natural adaptation for his work. There is nothing artificial about him. In private life he is the character of the modest, brainy engineer he personates."

I heard no more of this, which was already sufficient to destroy my dream of that sublime modesty I had seen in my adored one. I fancied George was watching me and took out my handkerchief to conceal a blaze in my cheeks, muttering something about a "stuffy" atmosphere. Presently a man came out, folding up a paper, and hurried away. Another came to the door and said in St. Cyr's voice:

"Come in, Mr. Marsh. I have five minutes before I begin to dress."

This wasn't St. Cyr. It couldn't be St. Cyr. St. Cyr was a god. This man was an ordinary creature as I ever saw. The noble brow was a bald dome; the massive head was the shape of a football; the ears stuck out like those of an ape. His body was thick; his legs were thin. He was Murphy. I will never call him St. Cyr again. He put out a big red hand to me, then handed me a seat and said to George:

"You won't mind if I make up my head and face, will you?"

George assured him that we would not, and, sitting on a stool before a mirror, he put on a whole head, hair and all, slipped springs over his ears, then covered his pug nose with a Roman. This done, he took up paint brushes and began to blend the artificial with the natural. As he worked he talked.

"Fine line of business we're doing, Mr. Marsh. The secret of my success is knowing how to do it. Most young people who go on the stage waste a lot of time blundering about art. It isn't art; it's business. The only art in it is to fool the public, especially the silly young. There's the letters I got today," pointing, "from young ladies who admire this stuffed head. Don't open any more. But I like to get 'em. I never knew a great run without 'em."

When he came to a pause I told George I couldn't stand the air in there and asked him to take me out. At the stage door I told him I didn't want to stay for the play. We got into the carriage, and George told the coachman to drive home. As soon as we were seated I saw that George was laughing.

"Don't fancy, sweetheart," he said, "that I haven't noticed your infatuation. It has cost me cigars and liquor for a week spent on Murphy to secure the privilege of taking you to see him as he is."

I am now Mrs. Marsh and perfectly satisfied with my husband.

LIKE A HORSE.

A Man Was Hitched to a Plow and Kept in the Stable.

Raleigh, Miss., Sept. 29.—The arrest and conviction of Will and Julius Sullivan, alleged leaders of the Sullivan band of desperadoes, has brought to light a most peculiar crime, that of treating a human being like a horse.

Will and Julius went to the house of Lodi Sullivan, their uncle, in Covington county, called him to the gate and seized and took him to a stable. There he was harnessed to a plow and the two boys forced him to draw the implement through the fields. At night the uncle was taken to the stable, placed in a stall and given six ears of corn and a bundle of fodder. This method of torture was kept up for two days.

Judge Enoch, who tried the Sullivan boys for this crime, is authority for the truth of the unusual story. Judge Enoch has just been called on to try Will and Julius Sullivan for other crimes, and now both have been sent to the penitentiary. Will for killing one of his kinsman and Julius for white-capping.

LETTER WAS FICTION

IMPUDENT FORGERY TURNS OUT TO BE A NEW YORK POST EDITORIAL.

New York, September 29.—The letter alleged to have been received by Michael J. Donnelly, the leader of the meat strike, purporting to be one sent by President Roosevelt, was copied from an editorial in the New York Evening Post of August 1. The Evening Post says today:

"The letter appeared as an editorial in the Evening Post of August 1, and was explicitly stated to be a letter which the president 'might' have written with advantage to himself and the country. In other words, it was confessedly an imaginary letter written for the sake of bringing out certain truths in regard to the meat strike."

The Evening Post also says: "We had no thought of ourself of being able to make a presentable imitation of the president's literature, and as the article was at the time commented on and reproduced somewhat extensively in the press we never dreamed of its ever coming to figure as a 'campaign forgery.'"

KENTUCKY NEWS TOLD IN PARAGRAPHS

HAD TO LEAVE.

Owingsville, Ky., September 29.—Unknown persons placed a note on the veranda of Charles Bailey's residence, near here, informing him that if he did not force Mrs. Anna Harrod to vacate the premises with her sanctified meeting tent they would burn his residence and destroy other property. Then Mr. Bailey forced the woman to leave, and she went a short distance away.

For several months Mrs. Harrod has been holding services for the "Church of Saints" in different sections of this county. Thousands attended her meetings, and the number of her converts reach into the hundreds. Her teachings have caused the congregations of some of the oldest churches in this section to become divided, and several families have been broken up because some of the members would become converts of the "Saints" church.

When Mrs. Harrod's converts are seized with religious enthusiasm they spring to their feet, shouting and dancing. They continue this until exhausted, when they fall to the floor in a faint. When they revive they are supposed to be "chastened in spirit." A few weeks ago Mrs. Harrod held a camp-meeting in Moore's Ferry section of this county, which was attended on Sunday by over 3,000 people.

KILLING REVIVES FEUD.

Mayking, Ky., September 29.—Tandy Martin, alleged former leader in the Martin-Tolliver feud, shot and killed James Ambury, a reputed leader of the late Tolliver faction, on the Knott-Letcher border. After a period of twenty years of peace both factions are now expecting a clash momentarily.

BREWERS ELECT OFFICERS.

Louisville, Ky., September 29.—The Kentucky Brewers' Association at St. Louis elected officers for the ensuing year. They are: President, S. F. Kellner, of Louisville; vice-president, Charles Kaufman, of Ohio; secretary, J. A. Miller, of Ohio; and treasurer, John Gurid, of Lexington, Ky.

A loving cup was presented to the retiring president, Charles A. Weber.

IS CONSTITUTIONAL

So Says the Court of Appeals of Registration Law.

All Registration Officers Must Sign the Certificate.

Frankfort, Ky., September 29.—The court of appeals upholds the validity of the act of the last general assembly providing for the issuing of registration certificates to voters, and the extension of registration to all incorporated towns in the commonwealth. The opinion was delivered by Judge Settle, the whole court considering the question and concurring.

The question came before the court here on an appeal from the Kenton circuit in a case of J. C. B. Yates against J. D. Collins. W. H. Mackoy sat as special judge in the case and held the act to be unconstitutional, and the opinion of today is a reversal of that judgment.

The court says: "That at the act is in several respects defective must be conceded, but the defects are such as may be corrected by future legislation, and being of the opinion that the act is neither unreasonable or violative of the provisions of the constitution it is our duty to uphold its validity."

The opinion of the court was withdrawn after being handed down in order to give Judge Settle opportunity to make two additions to it. These additions are to meet the queries put as to the number of signatures required to the certificate of registration, and the issuing of certificates after regular registration day by the county clerk. The court holds that all officers of registration must sign the certificate and that the county clerk can issue certificates to parties who could not register on the regular day for doing so.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

Lexington, Ky., September 29.—Chief Justice Burnham, of the Kentucky court of appeals, will not be a candidate nor will his name be submitted to the judicial convention October 3. The Republican committee of the Fifth Appellate district has called a convention to be held here, however.

PISTOL FAILED TO SNAP.

Hopkinsville, Ky., September 29.—Henry Learvell, colored, while working on the streets for a fine assessed against him, disputed the authority of E. C. Outlaw, officer in charge of the gang, and the negro would have been killed had the officer's pistol not missed fire. The negro also threatened the officer with a shovel with which he was working. The other four negroes in the gang refused to help the officer subdue him, and for some time it looked as if serious trouble was imminent, but, although Mr. Outlaw was alone in charge of the negroes, he finally got them to the lock-up.

GRAND JURY TO INQUIRE.

Lexington, Ky., September 29.—No steps have been taken in the mysterious Mulligan poisoning case here. Friends of young Mulligan, who came here to refute the story of the negro Mitchell, who is in jail here, tried to get the investigation closed without the necessity of a grand jury investigation, but it is understood that body will take up the case either today or tomorrow.

THROWN BY HORSE

W. J. CORDON, OF KUTTAWA, BADLY INJURED.

Mr. W. J. Cordon, of Kuttawa, a merchant, fell from his horse between Eddyville and Kuttawa yesterday, and was dragged some distance by his foot hanging in the stirrup, sustaining serious injuries.

He was riding from Eddyville to Kuttawa and while no one saw the accident and Mr. Cordon has been unable to give an account of it, it is presumed he was thrown. His head was badly bruised and his hip and arm broken. He was found in an unconscious condition with his horse nearby and this morning his condition is reported serious but the doctors think he will recover. His skull was fractured and he is suffering from concussion.

BRAKEMAN KILLED

WAS FORMERLY EMPLOYED ON THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL

Val Dearing, formerly employed as a brakeman on the St. Louis division of the Illinois Central, and well known in Paducah, was killed Monday afternoon at the White Walnut dining at Pinckneyville, Ill. At the time of his death he was employed as a top hand at the mine and was engaged in pushing a coal car under the chutes to be loaded. Dearing lost control of the car as it sped down the grade and heard the front end of the car to place the brake. Unfortunately as he placed the brake the latter broke, the force throwing him beneath the wheels and causing him to meet almost instant death. One arm was cut off and his head was crushed.

TEXT-BOOK CAMPAIGN QUOTATIONS

"We each and all owe a duty to the community and to the state. It is a positive duty and that is to aid in securing good laws and their faithful enforcement. We are not menaced by foreign foes. We have no fear of alien attack. We have nothing within to dread except the indifference of the intelligent citizen to the discharge of his civic obligations."—Hon. C. W. Fairbanks, at Freehold, N. "I would like to impress upon every public man, upon every writer in the press, the fact that strength should go hand in hand with courtesy, with scrupulous regard in word and deed, not only for the rights, but for the feelings of other nations."—President Roosevelt at Waukesha, Wis., April 3, 1903.

"It is foolish to pride ourselves on our progress and prosperity upon our commanding position in the international industrial world and at the same time have nothing but denunciation for the men to whose commanding position we in part owe this very progress and prosperity, this commanding position."—President Roosevelt at Cincinnati, September 20, 1902.

"Whether the standard be low or high, whether they be the standards of the hour's expediency or the standards of civilization's progress time can only tell; but that they shall be the latter the work of Theodore Roosevelt, as president of the United States, is more weighty than that of any one, of any score, of all of his detractors, put together."—Hon. Elihu Root, at New York February 3, 1904.

"Our opponents ask the people to trust their present promises in consideration of the fact that they intend to treat their past promises as null and void."—President Roosevelt's speech accepting 1904 nomination.

20,000 MILES.

Mr. and Mrs. Cortlandt Bishop Belt the Globe in a Touring Car.

New York, Sept. 29.—After traveling 20,000 miles in an automobile, traversing Central and Southern Europe and Northern Africa, Mr. and Mrs. Cortlandt Bishop arrived here on the Kronprinz Wilhelm, of the North German Lloyd line. Their trip occupied about eight months, and extended to regions where the horse and the camel had hitherto been the only known means of conveyance.

Sailing from New York in January, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, after a short stay in Paris, went to Marseilles, where they took a twenty-four horse power Panhard automobile, which had been in the Paris-Madrid race.

"At Marseilles," said Mr. Bishop, "we took a steamer to Algiers, and passed about six weeks riding through the north of Africa. We went as far as the desert of Sahara. I was surprised to find what good roads they have in the countries under French control. There are no bridges, and we had to ford rivers with the machine. As ours was the first automobile ever seen there, it naturally aroused a great deal of interest among the natives."

"Crossing over to Sicily, we made a tour of the island, but the roads were so fearfully cut up and full of sharp stones that we decided to try Italy. From Naples we ran into the interior and then visited the little republic of San Marino. Next we made for the
